PRICE THREE CENTS

SPEAKER SAYS PRICES CAUSED BUYERS' STRIKE

W. W. Townsend, head of a New York firm of economic advisors, told members of the Waynesboro Manufacturers association and the Valley branch of the National Metal Trades association Saturday that the present recession is entirely different from any other recession or depression in the history of the United States, and that, for possibly the first time in history, more than half of the money in this country is in the hands of the "little people."

Townsend spoke at the 19th annual industrial fellowship outing of the two organizations at the South Mountain Fair Grounds, near Arendtsville, following a dinner served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Arendtsville fire company. Another speaker was Theodore Roosevelt III, Pennsylvania secretary of commerce, who spoke on Pennsylvania Week and urged industrialists to join in its observance. William H. Strauss, Waynesboro, president of the Manufacturers' association, also spoke. Henry M. Scharf, manager of the Hotel Gettysburg, was among several introduced.

Townsend declared that "if present prices return to the 1940 level, it will not be a return to normal, but a low spot in the present recession," and said that "the final price structure that comes out of the present situation will be about one and a half times that of the 1939-1940 level."

Blames "Planned Economy"

"The present recession" is full proof that a planned economy can never operate efficiently," Townsend added. "We can prevent by law, but we cannot induce by law. The reason the present recession is in existence is because the housewife has said 'no' to current prices. She, and her husband, would rather have money than the things they can buy with it," he said.

"This is a completely new and unusual situation," he continued. "The little people of the United States have money, about $14,000,000 worth of it, and they are holding on to it."

"After the war, manufacturers wanted to produce and they bid against each other for materials" (Please Turn to Page 2)

DR. A. R. WENTZ IS HOME FROM CHURCH MISSION

Dr. A. R. Wentz, president of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary and vice president of the Lutheran World Federation, returned Saturday night after presiding at a meeting of the executive committee of the federation at Oxford, England. Dr. Wentz returned from England on the Cunard White Star liner, Parthia, which reached New York city at 5 p. m., Saturday.

The executive committee of the Lutheran World Federation is composed of Lutheran representatives from the United States, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Germany and France. It meets annually, and Dr. Wentz presided over this year's sessions. Bishop Anders Nygren is president. He was a guest of the seminary here for three months in the winter of 1947.

Dr. Wentz said he found England under stringent regulations, and that conditions, particularly in regard to food supplies, were serious because of a drought.

Ask Bishop's Release

The executive committee adopted resolutions requesting the freeing of Bishop Ordass of Hungary, head of the Lutheran church in that country, and cited the falsity of charges on which the bishop was taken into custody by the government. Bishop Ordass was in this country in 1947.

Reports from Dr. Stewart Herman, director of the Lutheran World Federation resettlement of displaced persons bureau, showed thousands of Lutherans leaving the Baltic provinces every week. They are going to the United States, Australia, Argentina, Canada and England, Dr. Wentz said.

Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, was presented to the king and queen of England, during the conference, Dr. Wentz said.

JULY HEAT AND RAINS SET NEW RECORDS HERE

Gettysburg and Adams county residents don't need weather records to identify July as a hot, wet month but the heat and showers that caused so much discomfort furnished Gettysburg with some brand new weather records.

Gettysburg Times weather statistics showed today that the month which ended Sunday:

1) Was the hottest July here in 16 years and came within a fraction of a degree of being the hottest July since continuous weather records were begun here in 1903.

2) Was by far the wettest July experienced in Gettysburg within the span covered by local weather records.

Enough Rain For 3 Months Last month's rainfall totaled 10.56 inches—approximately equal to normal rainfall for most three-month periods.

Only two other Julys in local weather annals topped the 8-inch mark. They occurred in 1942 when the total was 8.2 inches and in 1916 when the figure was 8.09 inches.

Only four other months—including April, traditional month of showers—ever topped the 10.56-inch mark set here last month. The wettest month ever recorded here was September of 1934 when 15.13 inches of rain were measured. Next high was August of 1911 when the total was 12.99 inches. The only other months to top last month's total in the last 46 years were August of 1933 with 11.51 inches and May of 1908 with 10.95 inches. No April showers ever approached last month's record here.

Above 90 On 14 Days On 14 of the 31 days last month, the mercury climbed into the 90's and on 13 of those days the temperature never dropped below the 70-degree mark which meant for most Gettysburgians the nights were "too hot to sleep." The hottest day last month was July 6 with a high of 99 degrees, falling short of the all-time high of 105 degrees reached here in 1926.

Measurable amounts of rain fell on 14 weather days but high humidity on many other days helped to make the high temperatures more uncomfortable.

Last month's rainfall was nearly three times the "normal" 3.52 inches.

Relief Arrives The rain here on Tuesday, July 11, totaled 4.63 inches and was the heaviest reported by any weather station in the state that day.

The month's average daily maximum temperature was 82.2 degrees and the average daily minimum was 65.5 degrees making the month's average 78.4 degrees, which is 3.8 degrees above "normal" for July heat.

Saturday evening's thunder-shower brought more than a half-inch of rain and a welcome drop in the temperatures after six straight days of above-90 degree heat.

LARGE AUDIENCE FOR CAMPFIRE

Another large audience attended the second in the summer's series of campfire programs presented by the National Park Service on East Cemetery hill Sunday evening.

A descriptive talk on Mt. Desert Island and Acadia National Park in Maine was given by Vernon S. Lunt, superintendent of the Gettysburg National cemetery. Mr. Lunt was an Acadia park ranger before coming to Gettysburg. He showed a large number of slides, in color, in connection with his talk.

The pictures included a number of views of the park coastline and the ocean, both from mountains in the interior of the island and from the water, as well as scenic roadways, beaches and pictures of animal and bird wildlife.

Some of the slides were taken after the disastrous forest fire which swept much of this territory in 1947, and showed its devastating effects on the forest lands and property.

Next Sunday night Dr. C. Max Bauer, geologist of the National Park Service, Washington, D. C., will give a talk, illustrated by slides, on the scientific and scenic wonders of the Yellowstone National park.

PROBES BLAZE IN LOCAL BARN

Eugene Sickles, fire marshal, today called upon parents and store keepers to cooperate with him in preventing what might develop into serious fires and perhaps loss of life.

Sickles said this morning that some youngsters in the north end of Gettysburg set fire to a barn last Friday which was hurriedly extinguished by the property owner when informed by other youngsters that the building was burning.

The fire marshal said that he had questioned a number of the youngsters in that section of town who blamed "other boys" for setting the fire. Sickles said that he learned that the youths had secured boxes of matches from store keepers on the pretext that they were getting them for their parents. Others said they got matches from their own homes. Some of the boys said that "all the kids carry matches."

Sickles said that he is making a thorough investigation of the case and reporting to District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter. All of the youngsters are boys ranging in age from six and one-half to 14 years.

The fire marshal today appealed to parents and store keepers not to give matches to their children and to warn them of the dangers involved.

SPEAKER SAYS

until prices went sky-high and right at that point the customers said "no thanks, we don't want any." And when that happened the boom stopped and the recession set in."

Weekly reports on the amount of money on hand, and where it is, made to the government by the nation's banks show that the people have money and that they are hoarding it," Townsend claimed. "These reports are accurate. They know how much money has been printed and the figures on where it is must balance."

"Today there are 116 billions of dollars in the banks and 29 billion in circulating currency. Of that amount only $14 billion of the circulating currency is being used, which means that $14 billion must be in the pocketbooks of the people unspent."

$14,000,000 Hoarded

"A person saving money, hoarding it at home for example, keeps it in the largest denominations possible, so the bulk is small. This is how we know the little man has the money. Fourteen billion dollars in $10 and $20 bills have disappeared from the records, and can go only one place—into the pocketbooks of the nation, unspent."

"Another argument against a depression is based on the fact that before the 1928 depression 90 per cent of the debt was based on private credit and ten per cent on public credit. Today 57 per cent of the credit is extended by the government, and the remainder is private credit. And Uncle Sam holds a privileged position."

"The price structure will be about 50 per cent higher than 1940 because there is 50 per cent more money in circulation today. Then we had 40 billion dollars in the banks and 4 1/2 billion in circulation. Today we have 116 billion in banks and 28 billion circulating currency, of which only $14 billion is being used. In a word we have three times as much currency circulating at one-half the speed that money was circulated in 1940. The result will be a price level 50 per cent above 1940 because the ratio shows that amount of purchasing power there."

"In fact we are in the unusual situation where the people of the United States, maybe not you or I, but those of us who have it, have enough cash on hand to buy everything we can produce. What we have today is a sit-down strike of capital."

BROOKLYN NIPS CARDS TO SNAP 9-GAME STREAK

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sport Writer)
Don Newcombe, big negro right-hander of the Brooklyn Dodgers who has had his ups and downs, has something to smile about today. He's turned the tables on his chief tormentors—the St. Louis Cardinals.

Solidly cuffed in three previous encounters with the rollicking Red Birds, Newcombe clipped the league leaders, 4-2, yesterday to snap the Cards' nine-game winning streak and put the Bums back in the National league race.

The Cards spoiled Newcombe's major league debut on May 20, socking him for four hits and three runs in a third of an inning. The next time the two met, the Cards belted Newcombe out of the box in the ninth inning with a three-run rally and went on to win in overtime.

Had Cards' Number
Newcombe's third brush against the Birds occurred a week ago Sunday and what the Cards did to him shouldn't happen. He couldn't get anybody out in the first inning. The Cards breezed to a 14-1 victory and took over first place from the Dodgers.

Yesterday, however, Newcombe had the Cards' number. The largest St. Louis crowd of the season, 32,965 fans saw the big fellow check the Cards on eight hits.

He blanked the league leaders until the ninth when singles by Ron Northey, Glen Nelson and Lou Klein plus Duke Snider's first error of the season allowed the Cards to score twice. Newcombe got pinch-hitter Bill Baker to ground out to end the game. The victory cut the Cards' advantage over the Dodgers to one and a half games.

Indians Slip
Meanwhile, the New York Yankees stretched their American league lead to four games over the second place Cleveland Indians. The Yanks split a twin bill with the Chicago White Sox, taking the opener, 3-2, and dropping the nightcap, 2-1, in ten innings. The Indians were blanked, 3-0, by Mickey McDermott and the Red Sox in Boston.

Ed Lopat bested young Billy Pierce in the first game on Johnny Lindell's ninth inning homer and Tommy Henrich's run-scoring single. Luke Appling slammed a two-run homer with two down in the tenth to give lefty Bob Kuzava the nod over Duane Pillette in the nightcap. McDermott scattered eight hits and fanned seven in out-pitching Gene Bearden. Dom DiMaggio of the Red Sox collected one hit to extend his consecutive game hitting streak to 27.

A's Shut Out Twice
The Detroit Tigers made it three straight shutouts over the Philadelphia Athletics as Ted Gray and Fred Hutchinson pitched the Bengals to 3-0 and 6-0 triumphs in the Quaker City. Gray yielded eight hits and Hutch five.

Sherry Robertson socked a pair of homers and Eddie Robinson one to pace the Washington Senators to a 7-3 triumph over the St. Louis Browns.

The New York Giants butchered the Cincinnati Reds, 10-0 and 9-0, confining their scoring to three innings. They scored ten runs in the first two innings of the opener with home runs by Johnny Mize, Ray Mueller and Hank Thompson featuring the bombardment. Sid Gordon was the big man in the nightcap with two homers during a nine-run second inning uprising. Adrian Zabala, making his first start since returning from the Mexican league, limited the Reds to five blows in the finale.

Phils Triumph
The triumphs elevated the Giants into fourth place, one percentage point ahead of the Philadelphia Phils. The Phils edged the Chicago Cubs, 5-4 in ten innings in Chicago. Dick Sisler singled home Gran Hamner from second base to break up the game for Philadelphia. Hank Sauer socked his 21st homer to account for Chicago's first two runs and Andy Pafko sent the game into overtime with a two-run four-bagger in the ninth.

The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Boston Braves split a bargain bill, the Braves winning the first game, 9-1, behind Johnny Sain and the Pirates the nightcap, 6-5 with three runs in the ninth.

The event was the first all-Indianapolis car program ever staged on a half-mile oval. Mantz completed the grind in 24 minutes, 32.79 seconds. Two favorites, Bill Holland, winner of the 1949 Indianapolis classic, and Tommy Hinnershitz, both of Reading, ran into engine trouble and failed to finish.

Finishing behind Mantz' Offenhauser Special were Duane Carter, of Los Angeles, Cal., second; Rex Mays, of Glendale, Cal., third; and Lee Wallard, of Schenectady, N. Y., fourth.

Tuesday's Game

Ortanna at Littletown, 8:30 p. m. (under lights).

Littletown moved into third place in the Adams County Baseball league standing over the week-end when Fairfield lost, 11 to 2, to the loop leading Hanover squad to drop from second to the third spot. Littletown was idled when rain wiped out its scheduled tilt with Gettysburg Saturday night.

York Springs moved ahead of Ortanna in the standing when it won an 11 to 10, ten-inning decision from Bendersville while Ortanna lost, 14 to 3, to Emmitsburg on the Marylanders' field. The York Springs-Bendersville battle was staged at Heidlersburg Saturday afternoon, because the York Springs diamond is being converted into a football field for fall use. York Springs was leading going into the ninth, and Bendersville tied the game then at 10 to 10. In the tenth inning York Springs players doubled and then homered, with only the needed run scored.

VFW Play Twice
The Conewago VFW squad from Arendtsville came close to winning two games over the week-end, but rain wiped out one victory, turning it into a tie.

Arendtsville Saturday scored a run in the third, fifth, seventh and eighth innings, and New Oxford came through in the eighth to tie the score. Neither team got anywhere in the ninth, nor tenth. The Veterans took the field in the first half of the 11th and pushed across four runs, but then the rain descended in torrents, preventing New Oxford from taking its turn at bat and the game reverted back to the eighth inning tie. R. Baltzley, D. Allison, Pitzer and Spence made the runs in vain in the 11th for Arendtsville.

Sunday the Conewago VFW squad had little trouble defeating Bendersville, 17 to 5, in a game played at Arendtsville.

Emmitsburg scored ten runs in the second inning to put its game with Ortanna on ice. The Marylanders pushed across two runs in the first and then Ortanna fell apart at the seams in the second. C. Rebert was driven from the mound, with B. Bucher replacing him for Ortanna. By the end of the second inning Bucher was also ready to retire, with J. Deardoff taking over the pitching duties for the remainder of the game. Seven errors by the visitors in the second helped Emmitsburg along the victory path. Ortanna scored twice in the fourth and again in the seventh while Emmitsburg

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

We are requested to say that the stores in Gettysburg will be closed on Friday next, the day set apart for humiliation, fasting and prayer.

The new railway bridge over the Susquehanna above Harrisburg, is spoken of as a magnificent structure, and one of the finest specimens of bridge structure in the country.

We learn that a camp meeting of the Methodist E. church will be held on the 20th of August on the York turnpike, four miles from Gettysburg.

Died, Sunday evening, Mr. Alexander McCrew, of Franklin township, aged about 55 years.

On the 22d inst., Mrs. Susan Townsley, wife of Mr. Abner Townsley, of this borough, in the 26th year of her age.

On Saturday morning, Joseph Griswold, son of Dr. T. E. Griswold, of this borough, aged about 16 years.

Garibaldi, the Roman general whose defense of Rome has attracted the admiration of the friends of liberty throughout the world was several years a resident of the U. States, and kept a public house in Cincinnati, Ohio, where he made a handsome fortune. It is thought that if he escapes his enemies he will again make the U. States his refuge.

Married, On Tuesday morning, by Rev. R. Gracy, Mr. George D. Eyster, of Arendtsville, to Miss Arabella Elizabeth Galbreath, of Franklin township.

On the 29th ult., by the Rev. John Ulrich, Mr. Henry R. Peters, to Miss Ann Eliza, Peters, all of this county.

On the same day, by the same, Mr. Philip Edwin Bruckner to Miss Margaret Thomas, both of this county.

On Sunday, in the Catholic chapel by the Rev. Mr. Dennaker, Mr. John L. Pickett, of Hagerstown, Md., to Miss Sarah Lafferty, of Baltimore, formerly of Gettysburg.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Watermelons and Peaches have made their appearance in the Gettysburg markets.

A large bed of magnetic iron ore has been opened in a field belonging to Mr. Frederick Reichley, east of the cemetery. Several specimens of the ore have been left at this office. The ore is said to be abundant.

The Menagerie and circus, on Thursday drew a large crowd. The large tent was filled to its utmost capacity at the afternoon exhibition. The performances were of a creditable character and made a favorable impression, but a number of the advertised attractions were not forthcoming.

The show brought with it the usual number of pick-pockets, who ply their trade in the midst of large crowds. Several persons were relieved of their pocketbooks. Mr. Henry Garlach, of this place, came near losing $100 which he carried in a purse. While purchasing a ticket he felt a jerk at his pocket. Turning suddenly around he found an attempt had been made to abstract his purse; but being entangled with some keys in his pocket, the thief failed to get the purse by reason of Mr. G's discovering the movement. The thief managed to slip through the crowd without detection.

Married: Norbeck—Shillenbush. On the 23d ult. at York, by Rev. Father McMonigle, Mr. Charles Berlucho Norbeck, of this place, to Miss Alice Shillenbush, of York.

Rickrode—Shultz. On the 12th ult., by Rev. Samuel Yingling, Mr. Hezekiah Rickrode to Miss Amanda Shultz, both of Conowingo township, Adams county.

Wisotzky—Clark. On April 21st,

ALWAYS DEBTORS

There are some debts that we can never liquidate. The debt that we owe our Creator for giving us the privilege of life. There are some who resent this privilege, but I do not. My greatest regret is that I have not been able to face life's problems in better part, and to better serve, according to my inherent gifts.

We owe a debt of love and gratitude to thousands of those with whom we have come in contact, all through life. We owe a debt of thankfulness to every one who has been kind to us, or who has given to us a word of inspiration and encouragement. These may be simple things to give but they mount high, and enrich our lives, further increasing our unpayable indebtedness to others.

This indebtedness that we owe to others, however, is a happy indebtedness, and though one that we can never repay, we can keep sending installments upon it, through our appreciation, and through emulating the thoughtfulness of others, and putting it into wide personal practice ourselves.

To all the profound thinkers of the ages we owe an enormous debt — to the artists, scientists, novelists, poets, historians, philosophers, statesmen, and spiritual leaders. All educators. All benefactors to mankind. How wonderful that the work and long toil of these can be preserved in books and thus made a heritage down the centuries! What an asset to any community is a great library. It should be the outstanding institution in every community.

And to our colleges and schools, what a debt we owe to them, especially to the teachers in them. They not only inspire a love of knowledge in the minds of the young, but they teach and influence sound character as well. They should be the best paid of all our public servants. Why they are so poorly paid has always been difficult for me to understand.

Lastly, what a debt we owe to Nature! Nature is the source of most, perhaps all, of the knowledge that we gain in life. The closer we get to her secrets and revelations the more we appreciate the supremacy of God, the Creator of all. Why so many thousands of varieties of flowers, insects, birds, animals? That is the mystery.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "A Day at 'Weskewanaak'."

PRIDE'S BEST

A stretching grin from ear to ear,
A chest expansion puffed with pride;

Twinkles that you can almost hear,
And boastfulness in every stride.
Achievement's most exultant joy,
The years again may never bring.
Look! Homeward bound a barefoot boy

With seven bluegills on a string!

Grown men make much of little gains.

The medals won they proudly show.
They boast the blood that fills their veins.

They like to tell how much they know.
Braggarts, at best, their friends annoy.

Too loudly oft their voices ring:
But all admire and cheer a boy
With seven bluegills on a string!

Look! As he struts the dusty lane,
The pole across his shoulder flung,
Pride such as that men seek in vain.
That's triumph only for the young!

At their supremest, joy and pride,
Denied to president and king!
A barefoot boy, and at his side
Seven bluegills dangling on a string!

For some time arrangements have been in progress for the organization of a Protestant Episcopal church in this place, or at least to secure stated religious services in accordance with the usage of that church. We understand that the arrangements are so far complete that hereafter there will be services every Sabbath morning and evening. Next Sabbath the services will be held in the Reformed church by Rev. Mr. Berghaus, of Lykens, Pa.

Singing Class—Mr. John E. Pitzer, who has been very successful in teaching vocal music, proposes to organize a singing class in Gettysburg on Monday night, in the Lecture Room of St. James church, at 7 o'clock. Terms reasonable. All who desire to join the class are requested to be present.

Cool Floral Color Scheme Makes Front Yard Inviting

By selecting flowers of named varieties, of easily grown flowers, striking color-scheme gardens can be grown from seed sown late in the season.

Flowers of named varieties, all of the same height, form and color, when grown in considerable mass, are much superior for decorative planting to mixtures, in which many colors and sometimes several forms are blended. This kind of planting is especially effective in formal arrangements, near buildings.

Illustrated is such a planting in the door-yard of a modern home where tall shrubs or evergreens would quickly grow too large for the location. The colors used are white, yellow, blue and pink, a combination that would harmonize with almost any color in the house walls and trim.

Cosmos Senation white, and Cosmos Orange Flare are used as a background planting. Immediately in front of these are the blue Cynoglossum, the Chinese forget-me-not, white pompon asters, and dwarf Calliopsis, which is the annual form of the perennial Coreopsis, and bears yellow and orange flowers with brown markings. In the foreground is a ribbon planting of annual pinks, bearing flowers of pink, red and white blended in attractive patterns.

These flowers can all be started from seed sown in the early summer, and will give a long period of bloom, lasting until frost kills them in the fall. When they are dead, the space they occupy can be planted to spring flowering bulbs, which will give display of color from the first spring thaws, until time to plant next year's garden of annuals.

Cosmos Senation white grows four feet tall and bears large single white flowers from midsummer until frost. Cosmos Orange Flare has bright orange flowers, somewhat resembling Coreopsis in shape, and having a long season of bloom. Cynoglossum has varieties of both dark blue and light blue. It's forget-me-not flowers blossom without ceasing all summer, as do the dwarf Calliopsis and annual pinks.

NOTES ON USING DISINFECTANTS

Farmers, suburban residents, and even persons living in large towns and cities are compelled by modern circumstances to make use of disinfectants frequently during the year and particularly in hot weather. To determine what kind of disinfectant to use, how and when to use it, and other details may mean the difference between safety and danger, health and disease. Below are a few random suggestions to aid those unacquainted with germicides, antiseptics, deodorants, and disinfectants.

To clarify terms, a germicide is a substance that kills germs; an antiseptic is a material effective for halting or preventing the growth and development of disease germs. Of course, as the name indicates, a deodorant may merely cover up or disguise an objectionable odor and need not in any sense be germicidal, antiseptic, or disinfecting in its action. Disinfectants are more general and complete in effects than any of these, although all such materials may serve in disinfecting roles. But to embrace the full meaning of a disinfectant the substance must destroy disease germs and render them wholly harmless.

In what cases are disinfectants and these other substances needed around the rural or urban home?

Farmers must keep poultry and other livestock quarters free from disease dangers around the year. For example, the poultry house and feeding and drinking receptacles should be cleaned and disinfected regularly. Dairywomen must make use of disinfectants to maintain barns and equipment within the limitations of most state and municipal regulations. Of course, every family should prevent dangers from originating in garbage containers and other places where house flies propagate or feed. On farms the outdoor toilet, septic tank, and other drainage and sewerage facilities require disinfecting. Even the soil in poultry lots often require sterilization to halt outbreaks of certain dangerous diseases and multiplication of parasites.

Milk of lime is an inexpensive but effective disinfectant, germicide, and antiseptic when freshly slaked at the rate of 4 volumes of hot or warm water to 1 volume of stone lime. This form of lime is often called quicklime. If allowed long exposure to the air it absorbs moisture and becomes ordinary air-slaked lime, in which form it is almost entirely useless as a disinfectant. Air-slaked lime is not even effective as a general antiseptic. Fresh milk of lime is excellent to use in outdoor toilets on the farm or to freshen up stables and other livestock quarters.

Carbolic acid, formaldehyde, potassium permanganate, lye, cresote, and several other chemicals are commonly employed as disinfectants. They all lose much of their effectiveness in the presence of organic matter. Therefore, scrubbing and other degrees and types of cleaning before disinfecting operations are necessary to obtain maximum results.

No single disinfectant is a general

Sulfa Drugs and Coccidiosis
Beginning August 1 the following sulfa drugs are available in Pennsylvania without a veterinarian's prescription, however only in the form of ready mixed feed: Sulfaguanidine, sulfamonomethoxine, sulfamerazine, sulfathiazole and sulfathiazole.

All these drugs are in powder form, and can control certain poultry diseases when applied in time and at the right dosage. They can be obtained from feed dealers who have to mix them according to the instructions of the health department.

I prefer sulfaguanidine for quick control of coccidiosis; I would use sulfamonomethoxine for the prevention of an coccidiosis outbreak (fed in very small amounts continuously), but this method should rather be used for the producing of broilers and not for laying birds.

The poultry farmer is still not allowed to mix the sulfa drugs in his own feed without prescription of an authorized veterinarian. It makes it particularly difficult for small producers who can not use 100 pound bags of sulfa-mixed feed. Let us hope that there will be 10 pound cure-all. Proper choice of disinfectant plus proper application and adequate time for effective action are three important factors in using these weapons.

Every farmer and urban resident interested in this subject should write his Congressman for a free copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1991—Use of Disinfectants On The Farm. In the meantime, the editor will gladly answer all related questions.

Canoeists Travel To Wilkes Barre

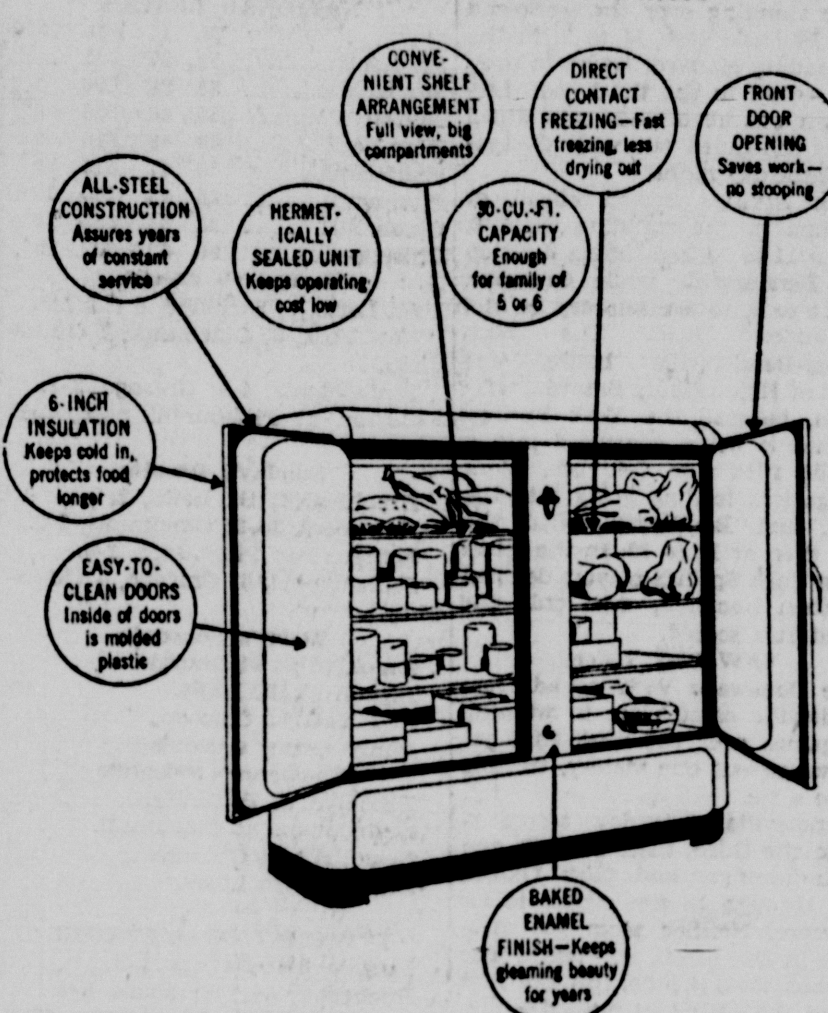

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 1 (AP)—The

canoeists traveling down the Susquehanna river from source to mouth have reached the halfway mark here. The six members of the party—making the trip on behalf of the National Geographic magazine—reached Wilkes-Barre Saturday night in a heavy rainstorm. Today, their schedule called for a visit to a colliery of the Glenn Alden Coal Co.

Later, the canoeists planned to start on the second leg of their journey—which began at Coopers-town, N. Y., and which will end when they reach Chesapeake Bay. After leaving Wilkes-Barre stopovers will be made at Sunbury and Harrisburg.

18 KILLED IN PA. ACCIDENTS OVER WEEK-END

(By The Associated Press)

The last week-end of July brought death to at least 18 persons in a series of plane crashes, drownings and highway accidents in Pennsylvania.

Two brothers died in a plane crash as their father watched from his farm at Wellsville, near York, Sunday. The victims were Guy Bowring, 28, of Baltimore, and Pvt. George W. Bowring, 25, of Camp Kilmer, N. J. The father, Bruce Bowring, Wellsville farmer, watched his only sons take off in the farm pasture after a week-end visit. The plane circled the farm, went into a roll and crashed.

Edwin J. Hribal, 23, of suburban Pittsburgh was killed yesterday in the crash of a plane he purchased 30 minutes earlier. A companion, Raymond Waters, 31, Turtle Creek, was badly hurt.

Four Drownings

Dr. Robert Canivan, Wayne county deputy coroner, reported Leonard Roegner, 56, of Honesdale, was sleeping along the bank of the Lackawanna river yesterday and apparently rolled into the water and drowned near the Sellyville dam.

Francis P. McCall, 41, and Stanley Filbert, 51, both of Pittsburgh, drowned early yesterday in the Allegheny river a mile north of Hulton bridge in Oakmont. Their small boat capsized in eight feet of water off Twelve-mile island.

Joseph Harakel, 17, a fisherman from nearby Glen Lyon, drowned yesterday morning. State police said he slipped and fell into Little Wapwallopen creek in Rice township. George Hines, 41, an unemployed plumber, drowned in the Delaware river at Philadelphia.

Traffic Accidents

The cars of two Pittsburgh neighbors collided on Route 22 near Florence Saturday night, killing Raymond G. Schmitt, 48, and his wife, Marie, 45. Two persons were injured, including William Hapgood, 39, a neighbor of the Schmitts.

On the Pennsylvania turnpike near Mt. Pleasant Alfred R. Prose, 31, a Minneapolis truck driver, was killed Saturday and a soldier riding with him slightly injured. Colonel Joseph Check, of Westmoreland county, said Prose apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

Keith Baker, six-year old son of Michael Baker, Jr., consulting engineer who planned the Pit-Pen Parkway, died Saturday in a Rochester hospital. He was hit in front of his home near Beaver by a pickup truck.

Other Tragedies
Thomas McKean, 45, of Ithan, Pa., was killed at Hartland, Conn., Saturday. State Policeman Angelo Buffa said McKean was driving a car of foreign make and it failed to make a turn. Robert Rader, 26, of Lebanon, was killed in a head-on automobile collision Saturday night during a heavy rainstorm six miles west of Lebanon on U. S. Route 422. Four others were injured.

Joseph Norris, 31, of Mechanicsburg, was killed yesterday. His car ran off the road and hit a telephone pole. State Policeman John Forbes said Norris apparently fell asleep. Betty Owens, 20, Austin R. 1, died Saturday night. A car in which she was riding crashed into a cul-

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Further words of football wisdom from stout Steve Owen: "Some people say we pass too much in pro football, but you have to have a good running game to make passes work and our percentage of completions shows they do work."

The passing game still is fairly new and pass-defense has developed right along with it. The big difference is that in pro football the receivers know how to fake. Kids coming up from college are easy to cover because they don't know that. But take a fellow like Bill Swiacki. We work against him every day in practice and still we can't cover him; imagine what it must be like when you only see him once or twice a season. Why, Swiacki faked his own passer, Charlie Conerly, once last season. Conerly knew where Swiacki was supposed to go, but he faked so well Charlie was certain he wouldn't go there and threw to the other side.

From that it isn't hard to guess that Steve is looking for a big season in the air.

DRAW YOUR OWN CONCLUSION

Various New England sports editors report the receipt of the following letter on the impressive letter about three miles south of Newport.

Mrs. Mae Back, 21, of Nanty Glo, burned to death in an automobile on Route 22 near Ebensburg. She and her 24-year old husband were trapped as the car overturned. The husband, Merle, frantically tried to rescue his wife. Two Pittsburgh janitors died in falls down flights of stairs. They were Nick Ulrich, 62, and James McGann, 67.

However, Wally can't see how he could defend his title next year. His father, Walter Kilrea, former Philadelphia ice hockey team manager, is accepting a position in the middle west in the near future.

He also announced that the annual service of Harvest Home will be held Sunday morning, September 11, at 9 o'clock.

Routine business was transacted by the Women's Guild of Christ Reformed church at their monthly meeting following the church service on Sunday morning. Mrs. Ralph Unger, president, presided. Rev. Boltz Preaches

Mr. and Mrs. James Harner and daughter, Barbara Ann, and son, John, West King street, and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stonelifer, also of West King street, spent the weekend at Langley Field, Va., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. The Rev. and Mrs. Theodore Woodrow Boltz, New Brunswick, N. J., spent the week-end in Littlestown as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Yingling, East King street. They visited with a number of their former parishioners and on Sunday morning the Rev. Mr. Boltz preached in Redeemer's Reformed church. The Rev. Mr. Boltz was pastor of Redeemer's church until his resignation in 1946, when he accepted a call to the Livingstone Avenue Reformed church, New Brunswick, N. J. They left town this morning. The Rev. Mr. Boltz went to Cedar Crest college, Allentown, where he will spend the week attending the annual spiritual conference for ministers and laymen of the Reformed church. Mrs. Boltz returned to New Brunswick.
